

FLIGHT IN AN IMPALA WITH TFASA

TFASA was formed in 2003 to meet the highly specialised flight test training needs of domestic and foreign aerospace industries and governments. TFASA provides a spectrum of training courses ranging from the Class I graduate course for test pilots and flight test engineers to a wide range of short courses for test pilots, engineers, programme and project managers.

Our home base in South Africa is any pilot's dream, with great weather and airspace access for all kinds of flying operation, from flight testing to training missions. We are truly independent, with access to all the fixed- and rotary-wing aircraft, ground equipment, instructors, specialists and support operations we need to deliver the broadest range of services. We draw on our network of international partners and governments whenever required.
